INTRODUCTION.

1981689

THE Author of our Being intended man for society, and impressed him with principles of a social nature. A disposition to benevolence is implanted in his heart, which, unless eradicated by the prejudice of education, will extend itself in such a manner as to comprehend the whole human race. This amiable disposition, however, cannot be exerted in an equal degree towards all mankind. Our families, our friends and our countrymen, have claims upon our affections prior in order, and superior in strength, to those resulting merely from our common nature.

Even in particular societies, besides the ties of friendship and family, there will exist other circumstances by which individuals find themselves connected with each other, more intimately than with the rest of their fellow-citizens. Thus the graduates of a particular university, or the natives of a particular province, consider themselves in all countries as bound to each other by a more immediate relation than that in which they stand to others of the community.

In a country like North America, the inhabitants of which derive their origin from different parts of Europe, it is not surprising that these objections should emphatically apply.

Though now blended in one political body, they are still distinguished by the races from which they sprung ; and for the most part look back to England, Scotland, or Ireland, as the country of their ancestors. Hence have arisen Societies, by names peculiarly adapted to each country : and these, so far from prejudicing, do truly promote the general interests of humanity, by directing the attention to particular objects : many acts of the most beneficial charity have originated with these Institutions, which have their use in various ways. Beside other good effects, they may afford counsel and assistance to strangers upon their arrival ; and by leading them to prosperity, may encourage the emigration of others, to the benefit of the individuals and the ultimate aggrandizement of their adopted country.

Such being the tendency and nature of these Societies in general, which cannot be considered as otherwise than truly laudable, the resolution has been formed by a number of inhabitants of this city, themselves natives of England, or the immediate descendants of Englishmen, to establish themselves as a Society, and to be subject to the following rules for the good government thereof.

THE ORIGIN AND DESIGN OF THE
St. George's Society,
OF NEW YORK.

THE Society of which this pamphlet treats was established in New York in the year 1786, immediately after the date of the introduction prefixed.

It arose from the congenial feelings of some native English, then settled here, who felt, that though this was to be their permanent residence, they could not restrain the gratifying recollections of their native land, or be unmindful of the condition of any who might resort to their vicinity in a state of indigence or distress.

They formed a band who should delight in periodical meetings, with the view of cherishing social intercourse among themselves, and devising means for the relief and happiness of others.

The most prominent character in organizing the Society was Mr. John Wilkes, a true-born Englishman, with a heart full of kindness, and abounding in all the social affections, whose worth, justly appreciated as it was by numerous and respectable connections, soon created subscribers to a Constitution; and the English of character, finding their way hither, almost without exception, became members, either permanent or honorary, according as their residence was either fixed or transient.

Although it is said above, that this Society was established in 1786, yet, as there had existed one before the Revolutionary war, with the same title, and of somewhat similar character, it was resolved in the following year to make eligible and to invite, as new members, any of the antecedent Association, or their immediate descendants or friends, though natives of this country, who might be desirous of enrolling themselves, and thus evincing respect for the land of their ancestors, and manifesting their sentiments of charity and benevolence.

The number of members, consequently of donations, was hereby materially augmented, and among the former may be found names of the highest value and general esteem, familiar to every one acquainted with the characters of New York for the last half-century.

The few lines of introduction to these sheets were from the pen of the late Richard Harison, Esq., of this City, to whose memory, whether we regard individual worth or professional renown, every tribute of respect, every token of our esteem is due. Of capacious mind and expanded imagination, it was natural that the associations he indulged in should draw and fix his admiration upon the land from whence were derived the precepts which had been the subjects of his ardent and unwearied studies, and that, with this enlightened bias, he should look with a friendly eye and a feeling heart towards an Institution of this character, and he became one of the Society.

In like manner, a most exemplary and estimable personage, now no longer with us, the Rev. Dr. Moore, afterwards the venerated Bishop of the Diocese, was an early, cheerful, chastening and efficient member, long acting as one of the Charitable Committee.

The expressive motto to the seal of the Society was of his selection—

“Let Mercy be our boast, and shame our only fear.”

The first President of the Society was Mr. Golds-brow Banyar, an Englishman by birth, only a few years since taken from us, having lived to almost a patriarchal age, in universal estimation.

Thus far have we endeavored to present a succinct recital of the events which marked the rise and progress of this benevolent Institution; but here our materials fail, and we can now only catch occasional glimpses of its onward course.

The accidental loss of the “Book of Minutes” in the confusion of removals during the epidemic of 1822, has deprived the Society of its valuable and accumulated records; and all hopes of their recovery having vanished, the proceedings of the Society, from the period of Mr. Banyar's election as President to the year 1824, can only be adverted to in vague and general terms. Thus, the narrative in which so many interesting incidents might have been interwoven from the registry so unfortunately lost, must of necessity appear abrupt in its conclusions.

Well is it known, however, that its sphere of usefulness became enlarged by the constant accession of members, and from the gratuitous contributions of many gentlemen of the first consideration in the State who, though not natives of the parent-land, lost foreign prejudices in the diffusion of pure benevolence.

An alteration of the Constitution prescribes that no person who is not a native of England, or the son of a native, shall be admitted a Resident Member of the Society.

In succession to Mr. BANYAR, the Presidential Chair of the Society was occupied by Mr. THEOPHYLACT BACHE, and this honorable station has since been filled successively by

MR. MILES SHERBROOK,

“ JOSHUA WADDINGTON,

“ SAMUEL CORP,

“ JONATHAN OGDEN,

Again by “ SAMUEL CORP,

who was succeeded by Mr. THOMAS DIXON, the present head of the Institution, elected to the office in the year 1825.

The names of the gentlemen who have officiated as Vice-Presidents, simultaneously with the above distinguished incumbents, cannot be accurately traced. Those who were associated in this capacity with Mr. Corp can be identified, and it is with sentiments of respect and pleasure we record the names of

MR. SAMUEL FERGUSON.

CAPT. FREDERICK PHILIPS.

MR. JOHN C. SHAW.

“ JOHN DAY.

“ DANIEL OAKEY.

“ T. W. MOORE.

The present members of the St. George's Society, united, as all preceding them have been, in the bonds of charity and good-will, feel grateful for the aid their cause has received from their own countrymen, and from so many distinguished citizens of the State. Their Institution rears its structure upon the basis of benevolence and love of country, and ought to be supported by every native of character who lands upon the American shore. It is their determination to dispense what good may be in their power; and, while meritorious inhabitants of the country they have adopted, they cannot cease to venerate that of their forefathers, or to rejoice in holding up the virtuous characters to whom it has given birth, as examples for emulation.

AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE

Modes of Election

SEC. 2. No person shall be admitted a member of this Society unless chosen by ballot, and if elected, his name shall not appear upon the roll, unless he has complied with the terms of Sec. 3; and no one shall be balloted for unless nominated and seconded at a previous meeting. No election shall be held unless nine members be present; and if two negative votes appear against a candidate, he shall not be considered as elected.

Admission Fees and Annual subscriptions.

SEC. 3. Every member shall pay to the Treasurer an admission fee of ten dollars, and an annual subscription of five dollars. But upon the payment by any member of a sum at any one time, not less than fifty dollars (besides the initiation fee of ten dollars,) the same shall be accepted in lieu of any further fee, subscription or contribution, and he shall thereafter be considered as a Life Member.

Of Life Members, and how constituted.

Annual Subscriptions
payable 23d of April.

SEC. 4. The annual subscription shall be considered due and payable on the 23d day of April, in every year, and if any member shall neglect to pay his subscription for more than one year after he shall have been called upon by the Collector and one of the Committee of Accounts, the name of such member, and the circumstances of the case, shall be stated to the Society at the next meeting, and such person shall thereafter be considered as having forfeited his membership.

Delinquent
Members

Privileges of absent
members

SEC. 5. Any member being absent more than a year at one time, may, if he thinks fit, decline paying his subscription for the period he has been absent; and on his stating in writing to the Treasurer the time of his absence, the charge standing against him in the Treasurer's book shall be modified or annulled accordingly.

SEC. 6. No member shall take his seat, or be entitled to vote, until he shall have paid his dues. Disqualified members.

SEC. 7. At every stated meeting the minutes of the preceding meeting shall be read, and those parts which are not objected to shall stand confirmed. To preserve order, and to expedite the business of the Society, every member who may have proposals to make, or observations to offer upon any proposition, shall rise and address the President; and no person shall interrupt another while speaking, if the speaker be in order. Order and decorum.

SEC. 8. Any member wishing to resign, shall send in his resignation in writing to one of the Secretaries, who shall notify the Treasurer of the same; and such resignation shall have effect from the time the member shall so send it to the Secretary, provided the amount of dues for which said member may have been in arrear be then paid up. Resignations must be written

SEC. 9. The members of this Society shall faithfully observe and conform to all the rules and regulations that shall be made by the Society, and entered on the books thereof, on pain of dismissal, and having their names erased from the list of members. Conformity to rules.

SEC. 10. In case of any non-observance of the rules referred to in the preceding section—and of a charge being made at any meeting against a member to that effect—a Special Committee shall be appointed to investigate the same, and to report thereon at the following meeting; and then, if a Accused members.

majority of all the members present shall vote for the expulsion of the member, his name shall be erased, and he shall never afterwards be admitted to attend any meeting of the Society, unless again elected by ballot, as in the first instance.

ARTICLE III.

Stated
Meetings.

SEC. 1. The Society shall meet four times in every year, to wit: on the tenth days of the months of January, April, July and October respectively, and shall dine together on St. George's day.

Anniversary
Dinner

Either of those appointed meetings falling on Sunday, the same shall be held on the day following.

Preparatory measures at October Meeting.

SEC. 2. At the October Quarterly Meeting, preparatory measures shall be adopted to provide suitable candidates for each of the Offices, as hereinafter mentioned; and the members at this meeting shall elect a Committee of three, who shall be prepared at the stated meeting on the tenth of January, to submit a list of candidates to the consideration of the Society, having first ascertained that the persons named will be willing to serve, if elected.

Should there be no quorum formed at the October meeting, then a Special Meeting shall be called by the President or Vice-President, at as early a day afterwards as may be practicable, for the purpose of adopting the preparatory measures aforesaid.

ARTICLE IV.

SEC. 1. A President, a First and Second Vice-^{Officers, and} President, a Treasurer, two Secretaries, one or ^{mode of} more Physicians and Chaplains and four Stewards, ^{election.} shall be elected annually at the Stated Meeting, on the 10th day of January, if a quorum of members can then be formed, and if not, a special meeting shall be called to carry this election into effect. Officers who have served the year preceding may be re-chosen. All Officers elected shall enter upon their duties on the 23d day of April following their election. The election shall be by ballot, and a plurality of votes shall decide. The President shall be first chosen, and duly announced to the meeting by the presiding officer. Afterwards the rest of the Officers shall be balloted for together.

SEC. 2. The President with the concurrence of ^{President's} the Vice-Presidents and Treasurer, or any one of ^{powers and} them, shall appoint the place for holding the estab- ^{duties.} lished Quarterly Meetings. The President,) or, in his absence, a Vice-President) shall have the power to call special meetings, but of all of which he shall give timely notice to the Secretary, who shall give at least three days' notice to the members, naming therein the object of the meeting, its time, and place, as he may be directed to do by the President.

It shall be the duty of the President to preside at the meetings, to appoint special and other committees, as well as generally to superintend the concerns of the Society, and he shall be ex-officio member of all committees; but in the absence of the President at any meeting, then the first Vice-President shall preside; or, in case of his absence, the second Vice-President; or, he being absent, one of the Ex-Presidents; or, he being away, the Treasurer; and such person presiding shall exercise the same authority that would have appertained to the President, if personally present.

Vice-President's duties.

SEC. 3. The Vice-President shall assist the President in the several duties that devolve upon him.

Treasurer's duties

SEC. 4. The Treasurer shall have the custody of all the moneys, papers, badges, ornaments, and effects belonging to the Society, (except the book of minutes and other documents directed to remain with the Secretary,) and he shall carefully preserve and keep them. His accounts shall be fairly stated, and produced for the inspection of the Committee of Accounts whenever called for, and be exhibited on or before the tenth day of January in every year, signed by a majority of the Committee of Accounts, and countersigned by the President. The Treasurer on leaving office, shall deliver to his successor the books, papers and other effects remaining in his hands; or, in the absence of the Treasurer last appointed, the same shall be lodged with the President until he shall be ready to enter upon his duties.

It shall be the duty of the Treasurer to honor and pay drafts signed by two members of the Charitable Committee, provided they do not overdraw the amount to the credit of the Charitable Fund.

He shall keep an account of the fees and dues that accrue, and shall appoint a proper and discreet person to collect the same, and shall allow such person a reasonable compensation therefor.

SEC. 5. The Secretaries shall keep a fair register of all proceedings, orders, rules and regulations of the Society, and shall cause the same to be entered in a suitable book provided for that purpose, a duplicate of which shall be lodged with the President. If a motion be negatived, the Secretaries are not required to enter it in the book of minutes. They shall have the custody of all the records and journals of the Society. They shall give notice to the members of all meetings by notes through the Post Office. They shall keep a roll of all the members, and from time to time amend and keep up the same, as circumstances require. They shall duly notify members of their election, and of the offices to which they may be elected, and of the special or other committees on which they may be appointed. They, or one of them, shall sign such cards of invitation to the Anniversary Dinner as may be requested of him or them by any two of the Stewards.

Secretaries'
duties.

SEC. 6. The Stewards shall make arrangements for the Anniversary Dinner, and with the concurrence or suggestion of the President, invite such British officers and strangers of distinction or fame as may be in the city. They may also invite such other persons as a majority of them may choose: but no expense attending the dinner shall be chargeable either to the Charitable or Permanent Funds.

Stewards'
duties.

SEC. 7. The Physicians shall give advice and assistance to such sick or maimed person as may be committed to their care.

their counsel and advice, promote harmony and good-will among the members. They shall also visit such sick and distressed persons as may be recommended to their attention by the Charitable Committee, or by the President.

ARTICLE V.

Of Committees.

SEC. 1. There shall be a Charitable Committee of seven, and a Committee of Accounts, to consist of three persons. Both Committees shall be nominated by the presiding officer at the annual election, and appointed by the vote of the members present.

Power and duty of the Charitable Committee.

SEC. 2. The Charitable Committee may distribute any sum or sums of money in charity, at their discretion, provided the amounts do not exceed the income of the Society. But more than thirty dollars in one year shall not be given to one person or family, without the unanimous consent of the President, and of all the members of the Committee, and their distributions shall be limited to indigent natives of England and the British Colonies, or to their wives, widows, or children in the Cities of New York, and Brooklyn. This Committee shall meet together at least once in each quarter, and confer with the Treasurer as to the state of the funds, &c; and as often as possible for charitable purposes. This Committee is also empowered to act as an Emigrant Committee, to give advice to and assist emigrants in obtaining situations, and to appoint a trusty person to visit and report to them who are and who are not proper objects for the relief of the Society, and to remunerate said person for his trouble in making such reports.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty of the Committee of Accounts to audit those of the Treasurer, and to confer with him respecting delinquents, &c., and they shall with the concurrence of the President and Vice-Presidents, direct the Treasurer to invest in the joint names of the President, Treasurer, and one of the Secretaries, for the time being, in such security as they may jointly approve, all monies belonging to the Permanent Fund. And this Committee, with the concurrence of the officers aforesaid, shall direct the Treasurer to sell out such portion of these investments as they may deem it prudent to realize, and to re-invest the proceeds in such other securities as they may jointly determine upon as safe and desirable.

BY - L A W S .

AT A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY,

April 17, 1848.

It was resolved unanimously—

That the Office of Almoner be forthwith abolished, and the sum heretofore paid to him form part of the fund at the disposal of the Charitable Committee, to afford relief to the poor and indigent of our Countrymen.

That there be annually prepared and published a Report of the progress and means of the Society for the past year, together with a brief statement of the main objects and design of the Institution, and a list of Officers and Members, for the information of Englishmen arriving in this City, so as to enlist their co-operation and support.

AT A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY, HELD November 3d, 1848, the following Articles, to unite the British Protective Emigrant Society with the St. George's Society, were unanimously agreed upon:

ARTICLE 1, That the above named Societies be united.

ARTICLE 2. That the functions of the British Protective Emigrant Society be hereafter managed by a Committee of Twelve, and be designated the British Protective Emigrant Committee, with power to form rules and regulations for carrying out the objects for which the B. P. E. Society was established.

ARTICLE 3. That the above committee shall consist, one half of Members of St. George's Society, and the other half of Members of the B. P. E. Society at the date of its union with St. George's, or of persons in future subscribing not less than Five Dollars per annum for the purpose of said British Emigrant Protective Committee, although not members of St. George's Society, nor eligible to be elected thereto.

Said Committee shall be elected at the Annual Meeting of St. George's Society, held for the election of its Officers.

ARTICLE 4. "Future subscription and donations to the B. P. E. Committee shall be paid to the Treasurer of St. George's Society."

ARTICLE 5. There shall be provided from the funds of St. George's Society a sufficient sum annually for the maintenance of the objects of said B. P. E. Committee, which sum shall be equal to the usual and average sum heretofore expended by the B. P. E. Society for that purpose, should that amount be deemed necessary by said Committee.

AT A QUARTERLY MEETING, HELD January 10, 1852,

It was proposed and carried as an amendment to the By-Laws—

That the President of the Society shall be a Member of the Charitable Committee.

AT A MEETING, April 10, 1852,

It was resolved:—

That hereafter when special meetings of this Society shall be called, the object of the meeting, and the requisition calling it, if any, be entered on the records.

AT THE QUARTERLY MEETING HELD April 10, 1854,

Resolved—That the connection of the St. George's Society with the British Protective Emigrant Society be dissolved, to take effect April 23, 1854.

AT A SPECIAL MEETING HELD April 24, 1854,

Resolved—To rescind the resolution of Special Meeting April 17, 1848, abolishing the office of Almoner.

AT A QUARTERLY MEETING HELD January 10th, 1859,

Resolved—That the wording of Sec. 3, Art. 5 of the Constitution shall be understood, that the investments shall be made in the joint names of the parties designated as Officers of the Society, and not as individuals.

AT A SPECIAL MEETING, HELD December 9, 1859,

Resolved—That two Delegates be appointed annually by the Chair at the regular Quarterly Meeting in October, to represent the Society in the Board of Deputies of Benevolent and Emigrant Societies of the City of New York.
